SUFFRAGISTS HURRY HOME TO COMPLETE TASKS FOR HOLIDAY

Ranks of Delegates Depleted Today When Scranton Convention Takes Up Proposed Legislation.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. M .- With the ranks of the delegates to the convention of Pennsylvania suffragists depleted conalderably on the final day, many of the delegates having been called home to attend their Thanksgiving baking and to meet their children returning for the holiday from boarding schools, the morning session opened with a spirited discussion of the relative merits of the Shafroth-Palmer amendment and the Bristow-Mondell bill, otherwise known as the Susan B. Anthony amendment.

Although the latter bill, which provides for woman suffrage throughout the country, is dear to the heart of every advocate of the cause and has been called the "ladder by which suffragists may reach the stars," Miss Mary Winsor, chairman of the Committee on Congressional Work, pointed out that because it is opposed diametrically to States' rights, the task of winning the Democratic party over to its support would be a difficult one. For this reason, she said, no efforts should be spared to shove the more practical Shafoth bill through.

Interesting accounts of the national convention at Nashville were given by Miss Mary E. Bakewell, of Pittsburgh, and Miss Lida Stokes Adams, after which reports from the local headquarters were

Plan Under Way to Dispatch Fra-

American churches will send official representatives to the Christian churches in Europe to convey the good-will and sympathy of Christian churches in Amer-ica some time early in the new year, if a recommendation to be made at Richmond, Va., to the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ next month is adopted.

Announcement to this effect was made today by the administrative committee of the council. It is the plan to have the less. recommendation go from the administra-tive committee to the executive committee, which will meet in the Virginia city from December 9 to 11. The recommenda-tion will include the suggestion that the secretary of the council should be in cluded in the delegation assigned.

The executive committee consists of official representatives of all the constituent organizations of the council. The action is to be taken largely as the result of the receipt of communications from t leaders of various European churches. The council's commission on relations with Japan some time ago designated the president, Prof. Shaller Mathews, to go to Japan to convey to the Christian churches, missionaries and people of that nation the good-will and desire for friendly relations of the American churches.

WHIRLWIND SUNDAY METHODS APPLIED ON BIG TABERNACLE

Structure Begun Less Than Two Weeks Ago Will Be Ready for Occupancy Within One Month.

The whirlwind methods that always make the "Billy" Sunday evangelistic campaigns spectacular are being demonstrated in the work of erecting the mammoth taberhacle facing Logan Square, at 19th and Vine streets. Although less than wo weeks have passed since the first spadeful of earth was turned, carpenters and other artisans have been on the job from early in the morning until late at night, and the heavy timbers and strong planks are beginning to shape themselves into a building, giving some idea of the size and architecture of the big gospel citadel. In less than a month this will be completed and ready for the beginning of the great revival to open on January 3. The tabernacle, including the choir loft with scaling room for the choir, Phila-delphia pastors and executive committee. and the 11-foot vestibules, which will touch on three sides, will have a capacity of between 19,000 and 20,000 persons.

Great care is being exercised by the agchitect and building, Joseph Spiece, to have the tabernacle constructed according to the requirements of the Bureau of Building Inspection. Mr. Spiece also is using his ingenuity to have the structure so built that Mr. Sunday's voice may be saved as much as possible. So minute has every detail of the sounding been arranged that the evangelist's voice will be clearly audible in the most remote corner of the tabernacle.

Joseph M. Steele, chairman, and other gives Philadelphia a unique position members of the building committee have expressed belief that the structure will ready long before the arrival of the today by the Councilmanic committee An interesting thing in the plan of the structure is the manner in which the planks are placed. Mr. Spiece has been experimenting for a year to save every sound of the evangelist's voice. He has found that by planing the planks and placing them so that the grain of the wood faces in one direction, they act as sounding board. The rear of the structure will touch 19th street, and through entrances there the choir, Philadelphia pastors, executive committee, Mr. Sunday and his workers will enter the building. The evangelist will face 20th street, when he speaks. The audience may enter by doors to the front and on the Vine and Wood streets sides. All these doors will be protected by wide vestibules intended to shelter the overflow crowds and those who enter and leave the citadel. On either side of the choir loft, platform and pastors' section, will be offices for the postoffice, finance committee, telegraph instruments, lost and found headquarters and other purposes.

RUMORED PURPOSE OF PRESIDENT TO SIT IN SENATE OPPOSED

Astonishment and Disapproval of Alleged Plan Expressed by Members of Congress in This City.

Astonishment and disapproval were expressed by Congressmen from Philadelphia districts today following the report from Washington that President Wilson might exercise his constitutional prerogative and sit with the Senate while important executive business was being considered, and that he would ask the House to amend its rules so as to permit members of the Cabinet to take part le its deliberations.

The opinion of representatives inter-The opinion of representatives interviewed was that such actions mingling, as it would, the executive and legislative branches of national government, would result in friction and impose a restraint upon the free administration of the business of the Senate and House. It was intermed that a steem of objection near of the Senate and House. It was intimated that a storm of objection would follow any attempt by the Chief Executive to carry his pian into effect. "I can conceive of no reason for the proposed pian of the President," and Congressman-elect George B. Darrow. "and I can think of no benefit which might be derived from such a course, except from a Democratic party standpoint. "If the President does take this action it will raise a rumpus, you may be sure.

it will raise a rumpus, you may be sure. The people are schooled to the entire separateness of the executive, legislative and judicial braiches of government, and any scheme to depart from this fundamental principle of republican government will not be tolerated. Autocracy in any form will fall of favor in the United States, and I am astounded to think that there is a possibility of the President taking the course indicated in

"Such a radical departure will result in no good," declared Congressman George W. Edmonds. "I can hardly contemplate the situation in the capital under such conditions. I have not had time to consider the news in its full import, but as it appears to me now, the action the President is reported to be contemplating would create confusion, discord and be contrary to the principles of good government." the Washington news.

of good government."

J. Washington Logue, who was de-feated for re-election to Congress on the Democratic ticket, was as surprised as his former Republican conferees when told of the Washington report.

"It is certainly a radical departure," he said, 'but I am unprepared to state my views on the question."

Congressman Michael Donohoe, who was defeated for re-election by Peter E. Costello, said:

"This suggested action of the President would certainly be ill-advised if taken. The greater the freedom of the legislative branch of government the better the government. Pressure from the executive branch would make for discord and loss of efficiency, and active in terference by Cabinet members into the affairs of Congress would be disastrous in its results."
